

Brief Biodata:

Dr Prateek Singh Bais did his graduation from KGMU, Lucknow followed by Diploma in anesthesia from Rajiv Gandhi Health university, Bengaluru. He completed DNB anesthesia from National Board of Examinations in June 2012. He did his Senior Residency from Dr RMLIMS, Lucknow. He has joined institute as Assistant professor in July 2018.

Designation – Assistant Professor, Department Of Anesthesiology (ATC),SGPGIMS

Qualification – MBBS, DA, DNB, EDAIC

Areas of interest – Trauma care and Regional anesthesia

Original articles:

Tripathi M, Kumar V, Kalashetty MB, Malviya D, Bais PS, Sanjeev OP. Comparison of dexmedetomidine and midazolam for sedation in mechanically ventilated patients guided by bispectral index and sedation-agitation scale. Anesth Essays Res 2017;11:828-33.

Mammen MV, Tripathi M, Chandola HC, Tyagi A, Bais PS, Sanjeev OP. Comparison of enhancement of analgesic effect of intrathecal neostigmine by intrathecal clonidine and transdermal nitroglycerin patch on bupivacaine spinal anesthesia. Anesth Essays Res 2017;11:993-7.

Tyagi A, Rastogi S, Tripathi M, Bhandari R, Bais PS, Singh M. Effect of intrathecal hyperbaric bupivacaine with small dose clonidine versus hyperbaric bupivacaine alone in lower abdominal surgeries: A comparative study. Anesth Essays Res 2016;10:195-200.